Joint Scale Committee Reports Disagreement to Coal Conference.

STRIKE IS PROBABLE

QUARTER OF A MILLION MINERS MAY BE ORDERED TO QUIT WORK NEXT SATURDAY.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 27.—The joint scale committee of the miners and operators of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and western Pennsylvania today reported a disagreement to the joint conference of the central competitive district and after a session of three hours the conference adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The discussions and arguments presented during the afternoon by the representatives of the miners and operators showed no change whatever in the situation, and indicated that the opposing sides are no nearer an agreement than they were in January. The present wage schedule will expire on Saturday and unless an agreement is reached before its expiration, 225,000 miners in the four states will be called from the mines.

President Mitchell of the miners opened the discussion in the joint conference after there had been a silence of ten minutes, during which each side was waiting for the other to make the first move. In a brief speech he said it had been his expectation that some proposition looking to an adjustment of the differences would be made by the operators at the afternoon session, but it was evident they had not been able to agree among themselves. The miners of the joint conference had ever exceeded their powers to meet the grave responsibilities piled upon them, "not only as miners, but as countrymen and citizens, by the request and the suggestions of the president of our country."

Mr. Mitchell then offered for the consideration of the convention a motion that as a basis of settlement there be a restoration of the mining scale and the day wage scale and the dead work scale of 1903.

J. H. Tinder, chairman of the operators, offered as a substitute a motion to [illegible] the present scale with all conditions existing at the time of its adoption, with the mining rate at Danville, Ill., for a base, and to include all cost of shooting, loading, timbering and inspection of shots.

Numerous speeches were made, and adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning without a vote on any proposition.

PREPARING TO BUILD

Portland Company to Erect New Shaft House at Once.

Special to The Gazette.

VICTOR, March 27.—The work of clearing away the wreckage of the Portland fire was begun today by a large force of men. President Howbert and all the officers who reside in Colorado Springs arrived here in a special car attached to the regular train this morning. They went immediately to the mine. The action of General Manager F. M. Kurie in not waiting for insurance adjusters to pass on the fire damage and in beginning the work of clearing the ground for the new building was approved.

The loss is estimated to be $100,000 and under the terms of the policy the company will receive between $80,000 and $85,000 in insurance. The new buildings will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Kurie stated tonight that very few men would be laid off on account of the destruction of the property, that the number of men would be increased at No. 2 shaft and that the others would be employed in clearing away the debris and used in helping in the construction of the new buildings, which will be started immediately.

DENVER Y. M. C. A. GETS A NEW SECRETARY.

DENVER, March 27.—Frederick L. Starrett, one of the best known Y. M. C. A. workers in the world, and secretary of the Rochester association, has accepted the secretaryship of the Denver Y. M. C. A. In taking charge it is with the understanding that he will supervise the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Colorado. He is to take charge of the local branch May 1.

In a telegram Secretary Starrett notified President William E. Sweet this this morning. The news of Secretary Starrett's acceptance was received with the greatest enthusiasm in local circles. Only the largeness of the field in the state prompted Mr. Starrett to accept.

Mr. Starrett is 35 years old, is married and has a number of children. He has been connected with the Rochester branch for the past nine years.

PRINCE ARTHUR, KING EDWARD'S NEPHEW, VISITING IN CANADA

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT.
Who Received a Royal Welcome at Victoria, B. C., Yesterday.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 27.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, nephew of King Edward, with a suite consisting of Lord Roedsdale, General Kelly-Kenny, Admiral Seymour, Colonel Davidson, Captain Wyndham and Miles Lampson of the British foreign office, arrived here today on the steamer Empress of Japan from Japan, where the prince invested the emperor of Japan with the order of the Garter. An immense crowd assembled at the pier, where a guard of honor, a company of the garrison artillery, had been stationed. Hon. Joseph Pope, under secretary of state, and Colonel Trotter, aide de camp to the governor general, went to Williamhead quarantine station in a launch and boarded the steamer, and the lieutenant governor, Sir Jolie De Lotbinier, premier McBride and members of the cabinet met the steamer at the pier. As the prince stepped ashore, while the garrison band played the national anthem and the guards presented arms, a flag was dropped as a signal to the battery and seven eight-pounders began a royal salute of 20 guns to welcome the prince to Canada. Carriages were in waiting and the party was at once driven to the parliament buildings, where Mayor Morley gave an address of welcome. A luncheon was given by the lieutenant governor and an official dinner will be given later.

The prince and his suite propose to have two days' fishing at Cowichan, a famous fishing district near Victoria, and will proceed to Vancouver on Sunday en route through Canada, and will eventually sail from Montreal for England. Victoria is hung with flags and loyally welcomed the prince.

The prince's departure from Yokohama was a notable one. Several Japanese princes, representing the emperor, Admiral Togo, Field Marshals Oyama and Kuroki, General Kodama and all the notables of Japan were on the wharf to say "Sayonara," and a fleet of battleships fired a royal salute as the prince departed. The Empress of Japan was escorted out to sea by a fleet of six destroyers.

DIGGING FOR "GREEK FIRE"

STEVE ADAMS IS TAKEN TO POCATELLO TO VERIFY HIS STATEMENT.

IS LOOKING FOR EXPLOSIVE WITH WHICH HE WAS TO HAVE MURDERED NON-UNION MEN.

BOISE, Idaho, March 27.—Steve Adams, one of the men who have confessed regarding their connection with crimes in Colorado and in this state charged against the so-called inner circle of the Western Federation of Miners, was taken to Pocatello today to dig up a lot of material designated as "Greek fire," which he claims to have buried there late in the summer of 1903. Detective McParland, Detective Thiele, Governor Gooding, Warden Whitney of the penitentiary, Guard Robbins and two newspapermen were in the party.

Adams in his confession stated he was sent by Haywood and Moyer to Pocatello to intercept a carload of nonunion men being sent from Coeur d'Alene to Colorado. He was, he says, directed to kill the entire lot and expected to do so with the Greek fire. This was to be thrown into the car, where it would immediately envelope everything with fire that nothing would extinguish. He had two quart bottles and three small ones.

The car of nonunion men did not come through as expected and after waiting a good while the plan was given up. Adams then buried the stuff in an old building that had been used as a saw mill, packing the bottles in a tin can.

A special to the Statesman from Pocatello says the place is now used as a stable and Adams is digging up the floor to find the cache. One glass stopper has been found which Adams thinks belongs to one of the small bottles.

Following is a statement made by James McParland, detective, respecting that portion of the confession of Adams covering the alleged plan to kill a lot of nonunion miners while they were passing through Pocatello:

"On February 28, while taking down the statement of Stephen W. Adams relative to the numerous outrages and murders committed at the instance of the 'inner circle' of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners, and while talking about certain high explosives, he informed me that George A. Pettibone made an explosive known as 'hell fire,' or 'Pettibone dope,' that in his opinion was the most dangerous explosive that was made on account of the fact that a fire started by this explosive could not be extinguished by water. In other words, a building set on fire by this explosive would be burned to the ground regardless of ef-

OHIO SALOON TAX IS RAISED

SIX THOUSAND LIQUOR SELLERS WILL BE FORCED OUT OF BUSINESS.

AIKEN BILL SUPPORTERS WIN CLOSE FIGHT BY SUPERIOR GENERALSHIP AMID GREAT EXCITEMENT.

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—Amid scenes of excitement almost unprecedented in Ohio legislative procedure, the senate this afternoon passed the Aiken house bill increasing the saloon tax from $350 to $1,000 and sealed its action by voting down a motion to reconsider.

The victory of the advocates of the Aiken bill was won by superior generalship in parliamentary procedure, aided by the friendly support of Lieutenant Governor Harris, the presiding officer of the senate. The advocates of the $1,000 tax went into the session with only 18 votes, or one less than a constitutional majority. Four senators, however, had agreed to support an amendment reducing the tax to $600. This was shut out by a motion for the previous question, which closed the debate, and amid great excitement the roll was called. The vote stood 18 to 18. Senator Beatty immediately changed from no to yes and amid tremendous cheering of the temperance people in the galleries, Senators Berry, Boehmer, Denman and Lauman also changed from no to yes. After a few minutes' lull, during which the crowd began to disperse, Senator Berry moved reconsideration of the vote and the lieutenant governor, seemingly not hearing demands for the yeas and nays, promptly called for a viva voce vote and the motion was declared lost.

Most intense excitement followed this action, several of the senators denouncing the lieutenant governor from the floor of the senate. Senator Ward of Cleveland declared it was one of the most disgraceful proceedings ever witnessed in a legislative body. The lieutenant governor, replying to the senators who had assailed him, declared that he was acting within the rules of parliamentary procedure and assumed the full responsibility for all his rulings.

The Aiken bill will go into effect immediately upon being signed by the governor, or within 10 days, should it not be signed or vetoed. The brewers claim the bill will drive half the saloons of Ohio, or about 6,000, out of business.

ASKS FOR WARRANTS

JEROME SEEKS TO BRING CORTELYOU, BLISS AND PERKINS TO TRIAL.

WANTS TO TEST VALIDITY OF CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS. PROCEEDINGS UNDER WAY.

NEW YORK, March 27.—District Attorney Jerome today appeared before Magistrate Moss in the Tombs police court and applied for warrants to be issued for testing the legality of the contribution of insurance companies' funds to political campaign committees. The name of no person was mentioned at the time. After listening to Mr. Jerome, Magistrate Moss said that before he would issue any warrants in the matter evidence would have to be presented that crime had been committed. To establish this evidence, Mr. Jerome asked for the issuance of a number of subpoenas in blank to be used in "John Doe" proceedings before the magistrate. Late in the day the subpoenas were issued. It was said at the district attorney's office that every effort will be made to get the proceedings under way tomorrow. All the evidence at the disposal of the district attorney, it was said, will be presented to the court and then it will remain with the magistrate as to whether warrants shall be issued or not.

In taking this action today Mr. Jerome is carrying out the policy he announced before Justice O'Sullivan in the court of special sessions last Friday, when he defended the opinion he had previously rendered, that there had been no crime committed in connection with the campaign contributions. Justice O'Sullivan ruled, however, that if it could be shown there was an intent to defraud the rightful owners of the property, it was for the grand jury to say whether or not the case was one of larceny. He instructed the grand jury and urged the grand jurors to fearlessly investigate the matter and not to seek shelter in the face of an unpleasant duty.

Mr. Jerome asked Justice O'Sullivan if he would not, sitting as a magistrate, issue a warrant for the arrest of George W. Perkins, former vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, in order that a writ of habeas corpus

PROTECTION ASKED

ENGLISH POLICY HOLDERS AFRAID OF AMERICAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

LONDON, March 27.—The Earl of Granard, in behalf of the board of trade, replying in the house of lords today to the Earl of Onslow, who on March 9 gave notice of his intention to ask the government whether, in view of the disclosures regarding certain insurance companies, it intended to compel foreign companies doing business in Great Britain to keep in this country a sufficient proportion of their securities to cover the claims of British policy holders, said the government would appoint a select committee to consider the question.

In introducing the subject, the Earl of Onslow reviewed the evidence of the Armstrong committee from which he concluded that there was no guarantee that British policy holders might not awake some morning to find that the assets had disappeared. In England, Lord Onslow said, a quarter of a million people were interested in the affairs of the American insurance companies and the country could not allow that the slightest risk of loss should exist for those who had invested their small earnings in insurance. He hoped the government would introduce legislation such as had been adopted elsewhere compelling the companies to deposit a part of the assets to meet their liabilities. During the course of his reply the Earl of Granard said that the suggestion of a guarantee to policy holders on the part of foreign insurance companies was not unreasonable. The government had carefully considered the matter and had concluded that the best way to meet the requirement was by the appointment of a select committee which he hoped would be able to move very shortly.

BODY OF AMERICAN SAILOR IS FOUND.

HONOLULU, March 27.—The body of an American sailor believed to have been one of the crew of the battleship Oregon, has been found in this harbor. The head shows signs of a blow, but the features cannot be recognized. While the Oregon was here, two men were sandbagged and robbed. There were no desertions from the vessel and the only man left behind was Samuel Neill of Butte, Mont., who had a good record.

SENSATIONAL DISCOVERIES

RICH ORE IN GREAT QUANTITIES FOUND NEAR MANHATTAN, NEVADA.

NEW CAMP MAY RIVAL GOLDFIELD—PICTURE VALUES FOUND AT THE SURFACE.

Special to The Gazette.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., March 27.—Sensational discoveries which eclipse anything yet made in southern Nevada are reported from Round Mountain, about 15 miles north of Manhattan, on Jefferson canon road. The strike has been visited by prominent Goldfield prospectors and the reports are more than verified. It looks like another great camp, the third within the last month.

Goldfield mining men returned from the scene yesterday and brought with them bags of samples. Today returns were had from the assayers, which showed the following astonishing values in gold and silver:

No. 1—$139,025.80, gold; $2,274, silver.
No. 2—$103,800, gold; $1,698, silver.
No. 3—$317,684, gold; $5,198, silver.
No. 4—$312,019, gold; $5,255, silver.

The samples were taken from two rich stringers, seven inches apart, that run through and are exposed for a distance of eleven feet from the foot wall without encountering the hanging wall. Assays of the vein matter outside of the rich streaks gave values three feet under surface of from $200 to $600 per ton. After trenching eleven feet to determine the width of the ledge, work with a shovel was abandoned and the pan put into use. For 50 feet up the hill above the exposed ledge the surface matter gave fine pannings of gold.

RIO GRANDE IMPROVES ROADBED AT ADOBE.

FLORENCE, Colo., March 27.—The Grande Railroad company has unloaded sixty carloads of ties in this part of the valley. They will replace the ties that are to be taken out of the present road.

This action is taken to mean that the company does not intend moving its track further south from the river, as it had planned some weeks ago.

It was thought generally by railroad men, after the disaster of two weeks ago, when fifty people were killed, that the Rio Grande would lose no time in changing its roadbed.

NO HASTY ACTION AGAINST HYDRO CO.

City Attorney Robinson Makes Clear Statement of His Position—Corrects False Public Impressions About Litigation and Damages.

That City Attorney W. C. Robinson will take no ill-considered or radical measures against the Pike's Peak Hydro-Electric company notwithstanding the passage of the Verner resolution Monday evening, is certain, and that he does not intend taking immediate action of any kind is evidenced by the following interview which he gave The Gazette last evening.

"No action has been advised by me under the resolution passed by the city council last night. The consideration that I have been able to give to the resolution has not yet made its meaning and purpose quite clear. A little time taken for consideration and preparation will not be lost, and in that way errors may be avoided. No hasty action will be advised, but the city's rights and property shall and will be protected.

No Cause for Alarm.

"It is a cause of much regret that the Hydro-Electric company is making an impression on the minds of some of the people by its cry of the great expense and damages which may be incurred by the city. It is amusing to see the great interest which this company is now taking in the welfare of the city. That cry of great expense and probable failure has a familiar sound to me. I heard it recently when an effort was being made to enforce certain laws of the city. It was raised by the offenders and their friends, and it was taken up by good citizens who believed that we could not succeed and that the people would be burdened with heavy taxes through our fruitless efforts. I believe this cry is raised by friends of the Hydro-Electric company for the purpose of frightening the people so that it may escape punishment. The cry should alarm no one.

Hydro Company's Desires.

"The reason that I stated that I would refuse to bring an action in court to test the validity of this contract is that that is the procedure advocated and desired by the friends of the Hydro company. By such an action the whole matter could be kept in court for a long period of time, and meanwhile the city's hands would be tied and the present situation continued. I will not follow the Hydro-Electric company's wishes, and no such condition will be caused by any action of mine.

"The city is too great to want anything more than justice, or to be satisfied with anything less. A careful and fearless perseverance may be expected to bring that result."

MISSOURI OUSTER EVIDENCE ALL IN—DIFFICULTY OF SERVING OIL EMPHASIZED.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The taking of testimony in this city in the proceedings brought by the state board of Missouri to oust from the commonwealth the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the Waters-Pierce Oil company and the Republic Oil company, on the ground that they constitute a combination in restraint of trade, was ended today. CHANCELLOR VON BUELOW IN DISFAVOR IN GERMANY

CHANCELLOR VON BUELOW.

BERLIN, March 27.—Chancellor Von Buelow has been the center of much talk among the public recently. Now and then a German newspaper has printed guardedly an intimation of a "chancellor crisis," which has been followed by denials on the part of newspapers having official connections.

Since Herr Von Tschirsky was appointed secretary for foreign affairs in January, in succession to the late Baron Von Richthofen, it is said the chancellor was dissatisfied because Tschirsky was selected by the emperor without previous consultation with the chancellor. Every week brought out a new story. The one of the moment concerns the raising of the colonial bureau of the foreign office to cabinet grade with Prince Ernest Von Hohenlohe-Langenburg, director of the bureau, to be colonial minister. Von Buelow proposed Prince Von Hohenlohe-Langenburg for the place, but when the appropriation was refused by the reichstag committee, owing to the center party's opposition to Hohenlohe's anti-Jesuitic action while regent of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha during the minority of the Duke Charles Edward, [illegible] post. The emperor, however, took the view that it was best to support Hohenlohe and insist on the reichstag making the appropriation. The question is likely to come up in the reichstag in a few days.

The emperor frequently calls at the chancellor's palace and walks up and down the garden with him, and residents of the houses overlooking the garden observe that his majesty's attitude towards Von Buelow does not differ from his former attitude. The emperor takes the chancellor's arm in the promenade or rests his arm on the shoulder while talking animatedly.

It is certainly true that Von Buelow has been much criticised and there is a disposition to blame him for the suspicion and distrust of Germany manifested abroad. Criticism, however, centers upon the chancellor for everything which anyone disapproves of. His position has been especially difficult during the uncertainties resulting from the conference at Algeciras and [illegible] opinion [illegible] campaign against him. There is no certain indication as yet, however, that the chancellor's position has been seriously af-

UNUSUAL SCENE IN THE HOUSE

SHACKLEFORD AND SPEAKER HAVE INTERESTING TILT. APPROPRIATION BILL IS CONSIDERED.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The house today witnessed a most unusual scene, the speaker rising on the floor in the midst of a spirited discussion on reciprocity and tariff revision, and disclaiming responsibility for differences between minority members. It was toward the close of the debate on the urgent deficiency bill, which appropriated among other things for the forthcoming conference at Rio Janeiro, when Mr. Shackleford (Mo.) rose to explain what he intended saying last week in relation to the Missouri volunteers, when he was taken from the floor by Mr. Tawney (Minn.) who objected to the personal character of the remarks.

Mr. Shackleford read his remarks, in which he charged the speaker with holding up the bill referred to. The speaker instantly rose on the completion of Mr. Shackleford's statement. There was a buzz of expectancy all over the house. Republicans gathered about the chair. Democrats crowded the aisles and it was a highly dramatic moment when the speaker himself, carrying a look of grim determination, said in a voice that reached every corner of the chamber:

"If it affords him (Shackleford) any consolation to make me a stalking horse on account of the quarrel with the minority leader, well and good."

Applause ran through the hall which was hushed by the chairman's determined effort not to let the house get away from the point at issue.

The major portion of the day was taken up with discussions on reciprocity and tariff revision incident to the passage of the urgent deficiency bill; the house refusing to instruct the delegates to the international conference to consider reciprocity in conjunction with the Monroe doctrine.

A few paragraphs of the legislative appropriation bill were considered and the tactics heretofore resorted to by Messrs. Prince and Hardwick in defeating provisions by "point of order" were resumed.

CAPTAIN CROY IS ACQUITTED BUT DISMISSED FROM ARMY.

PARIS, March 27.—A court martial at Nantes has acquitted Captain Croy, who was charged with refusing recently, on the ground that his conscience would not permit him to do so, to order the men under his command to capture barricades erected by the congregation of a church at Nantes, where the authorities were attempting to take an inventory.

Minister of War Etienne, however, has dismissed Croy from the army and has announced his intention of removing all the officers of the garrison at Nantes, owing to their sympathy with the dismissed officer.

STORMS WASH OUT 70 MILES OF TRACK.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 27.—Storm conditions are greatly improved in Los Angeles today and the indications are that the storm has passed. The railroad conditions, with the exception of the Salt Lake route, are also better. forts to put it out. This explosive was made of stick phosphorus, bisulphide of carbon, alcohol, benzine and spirits of turpentine. These ingredients being properly mixed were placed in bottles with glass stoppers, the stoppers being properly sealed. In order to explode these bottles and start a fire you simply threw the bottle against a substance that would cause the same to break, which would cause a frightful explosion and fire—a fire that could not be extinguished by water.

"The great strike in Cripple Creek commenced in August, 1903, and during the fall the mine owners were shipping in nonunion miners from the Coeur d'Alene and other districts. It was at this time that Moyer approached Adams in the presence of Pettibone in the latter's store in Denver and informed him the he wanted him to meet again at the store in the early part of the evening, when he would go with him down to the train. He said he wanted him to go to Pocatello, Idaho, and carry with him some of the 'Pettibone dope,' which he was to throw into any train that was supposed to be loaded with scabs and set the train on fire as it passed through Pocatello.

"He went on to state that according to appointment he met Moyer at Pettibone's store, where Moyer provided him with a telescope gripsack. In this gripsack was a tin can which he thought contained two quart bottles and three pint bottles of the 'Pettibone dope.' Moyer bought him a ticket for Pocatello and told him to get a berth in the sleeper, so that he would get a good night's rest and to watch every train that came through. While he remained some time in Pocatello, he cannot give the location of where the bottles of explosives were buried, but said that he could walk to the scene if in Pocatello, and he believes that the explosives are still there.

"He went to Ogden and subsequently came back to Denver and reported to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone that it was simply impossible for him to execute the work he was detailed to do without taking innocent people's lives."

might be obtained and the matter taken at once to the highest court. Mr. Jerome also suggested that if contributing to campaign committees by officers of the insurance companies constituted larceny, the matter involved Chairman George B. Cortelyou and Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss of the Republican national campaign committee, in the matter of receiving stolen goods.

Justice O'Sullivan declined to act in the case, saying there were plenty of magistrate courts before whom the matter could be placed and the warrants secured.

Before Magistrate Moss issued the blank subpoenas requested by District Attorney Jerome today, he examined Darwin P. Kingsley, vice president of the New York Life, who appeared before him. Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer, and several employes of the New York Life were examined in the district attorney's office this afternoon. It was said tonight that Mr. Perkins has agreed to appear at the proceedings tomorrow.

Magistrate Moss said concerning the matter:

"Mr. Jerome came to me and asked for a warrant or warrants for several persons and I told him very frankly that if a crime had been committed he would have to tell me about it. I told him in my judgment that could best be done by depositions and he agreed to submit them to me. The names of no person or persons were mentioned at that time."

It was learned today that the grand jury has not asked Mr. Jerome for any more evidence in these cases beyond that which he had already furnished the jury several days ago.

adjournment the New York proceedings were ended. He instructed Commissioner Sanborn, before whom the witnesses testified, to send a certified copy of the testimony to the supreme court of Missouri, where it will become a part of the record in the state's case.

Practically the last move Mr. Hadley made in the case was to introduce testimony showing the difficulty under which most of the witnesses who are in any way connected with the Standard Oil company were served. He put in the record the fact that every effort had been made to secure the testimony of John D. Rockefeller, but none had succeeded. He introduced copies of letters written to attorneys of the Standard Oil company requesting that officers of the company accept service. The request applied to John D. Rockefeller, along with several others.

During the examination of the subpoena server, counsel for the defendant companies brought out that the man had received money from newspapers for stories of his experiences in trying to serve some of the Standard Oil men. Counsel declared these facts were brought out to show that there has been a lot of grandstanding and advertising about this and a lot of sensationalism.

"The only sensationalism there has been in this case has been the sensational attempts of those witnesses to evade service of subpoenas," replied Attorney General Hadley.

On being arraigned in court, Connell waived examination and acknowledged his guilt. Henry D. Moorman, 26 years old, the youngest county judge in Kentucky, was recently elected in Cloverport and a few days ago performed his first marriage ceremony. He says it will be his last also, for he thinks marriage is too sacred a ceremony for judges to perform. Says Judge Moorman: "I attach a sacredness above my office to this thing of linking two lives. The seriousness, the sacredness, the Simon-pure of the thing is not there when an officer of the law ties the knot."

A TRIBUTE TO WHEELER

COMRADES AND FOES OF THE SIXTIES AND OTHER WARS GATHER IN HIS HONOR.

PROMINENT ARMY OFFICERS SPEAK INCLUDING COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE G. A. R.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—Uniting in their tribute of veneration, honor and respect to the memory of General Joseph Wheeler, leader in two wars, his comrades and foes in the sixties and his followers in the war for Cuban freedom, gathered here today and joined in such a celebration as is accorded to few men in military or civil life.

Nearly 500 Confederate veterans gathered with a third of that number representing the northern armies. The guests of honor were the daughters of General Wheeler, Miss Annie Wheeler, the "army angel" of the Cuban war; Miss Lucy Wheeler, and Miss Carrie Wheeler, also Mrs. Julia Wheeler-Harris, a sister of the late general. They shared in a box in the theater with Mrs. John B. Gordon, the widow of another great Confederate commander. The ladies of the Daughters of the Confederacy and other similar organizations occupied boxes. The main floor was reserved for the veterans of the north and south while hundreds crowded the remaining portions of the great auditorium.

The heavy rain which fell almost without interruption from early morning prevented the spectacular feature of the day, which was to have been a parade in which the Seventeenth infantry from Fort McPherson and the Fifth Georgia infantry, with numerous veteran organizations, were to have places. Governor Joseph Terrell introduced the speakers.

The first of these, John W. Maddox, a member of General Wheeler's command in the Civil war and an associate with him subsequently in other campaigns, gave a sketch of General Wheeler's career and character.

Corporal James Tanner spoke for the Grand Army of the Republic, whose commander-in-chief he is.

Col. Tanner paid high compliment to the courage and ability of Gen. Wheeler as shown on many battlefields both in the Civil war as a Confederate and in the Spanish war as an American commander. He expressed hope that a monument to Gen. Wheeler's memory would be erected as is proposed, saying:

"Many monuments have been proposed that have never been built. Some are proposed that it would be much better never to have built. Memories there are concerning which it would be better that prayers should ascend to high heaven that they may die out from the recollections of men and be granted the mercy of oblivion rather than that they should be perpetuated. But a monument to Joe Wheeler—yes.

"Lay the foundation securely that it may withstand the assaults of time and the elements. Build it as high as you please. From out the whole great north, east and west, against those opposing forces he struck so often, so forcefully, from no sod-gripped grave of any of our boys who went to death under his blows shall a skeleton finger point in accusation of his soldierly conduct and knightly honor."

Mr. Tanner also complimented the women of the south in high terms, saying:

"The union forces would have achieved success, in my opinion, 18 months sooner than they did if it had not been for the women of the south. Why do I say this? Because it is of world-wide knowledge that men never carried cause forward to the dread arbitrament of the battlefield who were so intensely supported by the prayers and by the efforts of the gentler sex as were you men of the south. Every mother's son of you knew that if you did not keep exact step to the music of Dixie and the bonnie blue flag; if you did not tread the very front line of battle when the contest was on, knew, in short, that if you returned home in aught but soldierly honor, that the very fires of hell would not scorch and consume your unshriven souls as you would be scorched and consumed by the scorn and contempt of your womanhood."

Eminent Doctors Praise Its Ingredients.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anaemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT

Creditable Rendition of Cantata by Soloists and Chorus.

The third concert by the Philharmonic society was given last night in Perkins hall before a large audience, considering the inclement weather, and was well received. The first number for piano and violin was played beautifully by Mrs. F. A. Faust and Miss Josephine Trott. Two songs by Llewelyn Jones, tenor, were received with favor. The solo for bass preceding the cantata was omitted from the program.

The cantata was credtably rendered by both chorus and soloists. Mrs. H. H. Seldomridge sang the soprano role with great intelligence and artistic effect. Her tones were true and uniformly pleasing. Mrs. George Perry had little opportunity for display of the beautiful qualities of her singing as the alto part is brief and not grateful to the singer. However, she sang dramatically and successfully. Mr. Jones, as tenor, made a decided hit. His pure, sweet and high voice was a delight to the audience and the fine tenor portions were rendered with true musical instincts. Herbert Whittaker, as baritone, sang his part in a thoroughly able manner. His rendition of the solo, "Where Gloomy Pine Trees Rustle," was received with great applause.

The chorus under the direction of Professor R. W. Stevens did splendid work, the score being sung with beauty and precision.

SENATOR LODGE ON OUR MOROCCAN POLICY.

The theory that the Monroe Doctrine shuts us out from participation in any European engagement of any kind whatever is wholly unfounded. The Monroe Doctrine is not international law. It is the policy of the United States which exists because the United States maintains it, and proposes to maintain it by force if necessary. It commands assent primarily by the support of the United States, and also, as the American people believe, by its own intrinsic reasonableness. The Monroe Doctrine is the balance-of-power policy applied to the Western Hemisphere, and the United States will uphold it as the balance of power is upheld by the nations of Europe, and because it is essential to her own peace and safety.

But the fact that we do not permit Europe to interfere in affairs which solely concern the American continents is no reason why we should not make with the powers of Europe such agreements as have been described affecting trade or commerce or the peace of the world. If we were to seek for territorial possessions in Europe, or if we were to engage ourselves in European alliances which might involve us in war, then indeed we should violate both the policy of Washington and of the Monroe Doctrine, but we have not done and have no intention of doing either. We seek no territory anywhere and desire none, least of all in Europe. For strategic reasons we were ready to buy the Danish islands a few years ago, and are ready to do so now. But when Denmark, yielding to outside pressure, declined to ratify the treaty we found no fault. We are perfectly content that Denmark should retain her islands, but it must be distinctly understood that if she sells we are the only purchaser, and the attempt of any other power to take these islands or other American territory especially on the Caribbean sea, or along the route of the canal, would be regarded by the American people as practically an act of war.

I repeat, we seek no territory anywhere, we desire none in Europe. It could not be forced upon us, and our only purpose in any dealings relating to European affairs would be to protect our own commercial interests and to advance the cause of peace and good will among the nations. We do not pretend to be more disinterested or unselfish than our neighbors, but in the nature of things, so far as Europe is concerned, our objects can only be peace, commerce, and good relations. We are at Algeciras because we are signatories to the previous treaties, and because our commercial interests are involved in the settlement of the recent differences.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in Harper's Weekly.

RAT STORY TOMMY-ROT

Professor Ruger Not Taken With Dr. Gates' Alleged Discovery.

Henry A. Ruger, professor of psychology at Colorado college, characterizes the story that Dr. Elmer Gates, of Washington, has witnessed the departure of a rat's soul as "tommy-rot."

"Dr. Gates is one of these men who is constantly giving interviews to the newspapers about his astonishing discoveries, but his articles do not appear in scientific journals of repute and he really is not an authority on psychology," says Professor Ruger.

"To believe that Dr. Gates with the aid of an X-ray, has seen the soul of a rat leave its body at the instant of death is to go back to the days of the heathen who believed that the soul was in form of a light tissue or film. I do not believe in this theory, and doubt Dr. Gates' discovery very much."

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health.—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Alice Berryhill.

Mrs. Alice Berryhill

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only.

Many thousands of cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as she has been.

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 213 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Three years ago life looked dark to me. I had ulceration and inflammation of the [illegible] organs and was in a serious condition.

"My health was completely broken down and the doctor told me that if I was not operated upon I would die within six months. I told him that I would have no operation but would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He tried to influence me against it but I sent for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt relief but was not cured until [illegible] it for [illegible].

"Your medicine is certainly fine. I have induced [illegible] friends and neighbors to take it and I know more than a dozen who had female trouble and who to-day are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

Just as surely as Mrs. Berryhill was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

If you are sick write Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

JOCKEY WAS CARELESS

The Answer of C. A. Baldwin to Suit for $5,000 Damages.

Counsel for Charles A. Baldwin, defendant in an action brought by Peter Carlson, a jockey, for $5,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received on the Roswell race track on May 10, 1905, filed an answer to the suit in the district court yesterday charging that any injuries received by the jockey were due to his own carelessness and negligence. Carlson was employed by the defendant about six weeks prior to the accident to do general work about the stables, and he represented, it is alleged, that he had had extensive experience with horses and was accustomed to their care, so that if he was injured, it was a risk that he assumed. The answer further says that the defendant was in California on May 19, 1905, when the accident occurred, and the plaintiff was not acting under the instructions of the defendant.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Wm. Lennox Sues Mining Company for $72,339 on Bonds.

William Lennox filed suit in the district court yesterday against the French Gulch Mining company to recover the sum of $72,339.32 and interest due upon a number of bonds that became payable on November 1, 1905. It is alleged that the defendant company issued 300 gold bonds of a face value of $250 each on November 1, 1902, and the entire issue was purchased by Mr. Lennox. The bonds were to bear interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, but no part of the interest or principal has been paid.

The entire time of the county court yesterday was occupied in taking testimony in the damage case of P. R. Oakes vs. the Chilcott Ditch company, wherein the plaintiff seeks to recover $1,950 for damages alleged to have been sustained by the faulty construction of the company's ditch.

Louis Stein, charged in the court of Justice W. N. Ruby with receiving stolen property belonging to the Short Line, was granted a change of venue and the case removed to the court of Justice O. R. Dunnington yesterday. A continuance was granted to April 2.

Mrs. Lena Smith, charged with assaulting and beating another colored woman by the name of Mary Gant, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $1 and costs. The bill was paid.

SECOND WAR WITH JAPAN

PREDICTION OF RUSSIAN COUNT, A VETERAN OF PORT ARTHUR.

SAYS AMERICAN IMPRESSION OF RUSSIANS IS RIDICULOUS. FEARS THE UBIQUITOUS REPORTER.

"Within the next ten years Russia will war with Japan," was the prediction of Count [illegible] Rodzianko of St. Petersburg, a lieutenant in the Russian navy and a veteran of the Russo-Japanese war, last night at the Antlers.

"Does that mean that there will be another war between Russia and Japan?" the count was asked.

"Most assuredly it does. We Russians are not yet ready to admit that we have been vanquished and within a short time we will show America and the European nations that the Russians are not the cowards and poor fighters that we are generally understood to be. There is no truth in the statement that our naval officers acted as cowards in the naval engagements of the late war. I myself saw instances of great personal bravery. I am a naval officer and resent the inference that I am a coward.

Sure as Shooting.

"I served as a lieutenant in the Russian navy at the battle of Port Arthur, and in numerous other naval engagements during the war, and in every instance where our forces were defeated we were overwhelmed by numbers. There will be another war and then Russia will show the Japanese that their great good luck and superiority of numbers will not win battles.

Ubiquitous Reporters.

"The only unpleasant experience I have had while in this country was due to the persistence of the newspapers in San Francisco. The reporters followed me around all during my stay in that city, and for six days I was subjected to all kinds of newspaper comment. The reporters in this country are certainly persistent, yet with all their persistency they are the finest class of men it has ever been my pleasure to meet. One resolves to get away from them without saying a word and yet they are so gentlemanly that in a few moments the resolution is gone and the reporter knows the very things which I decided not to talk about.

False Impressions.

"The general American impression of a Russian is that of a man with long hair and an unkempt beard. This is an illusion that should be dispelled. The men from whom you judge are from our peasant or laboring class. Suppose I were to go back to Russia and convey the impression that the hod carrier in his working clothes and his hod on his back was representative of the typical American. That impression would be no more ridiculous than the average American impression of the Russian. The Russian people are as intelligent and enlightened as any people on this earth."

Count Rodzianko, who has been staying at the Antlers the last two days, left for New York last evening. He rode through the Garden of the Gods yesterday on horseback and said that the scenery there was the most beautiful he had ever seen.

EATEN OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME

How a Confirmed Dyspeptic Developed An Appetite Like a Corn-Husker's and Cleaned Out Everything in Sight.

The wife of a leading druggist of Des Moines tells how her brother was changed from a dyspeptic without appetite to a prodigious eater.

"My brother, who is a lawyer in Chicago, came to visit me, and I hardly knew him on his arrival, he was so thin and run down. I had not seen him for years and was much alarmed at his appearance. He told me not to worry as he had been in this condition for years as a result of chronic dyspepsia. I asked him what he had done for it, and he said he had done everything—taken every remedy he had ever heard of and consulted doctors without number, none of them helped him. I asked him if he ever took Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he said he hadn't, and what was more, he wouldn't. He had sworn off taking medicine of any kind.

"I had my husband bring home a box from the store, and I actually made him take one or two of the tablets after he had eaten. They made him feel so much better that he offered no further objection. He had not taken the one box before he was greatly improved and three or four boxes cured him of dyspepsia and gave him a wonderful appetite. He came near eating us out of house and home. My, but it did me good to see him eat. He gained fifteen pounds before he returned home, and he writes me that he has not been troubled with dyspepsia since."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of their work of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach, and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten, and carry out nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by thus relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is, of course, not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. One box will frequently effect a perfect cure.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS

SELECTIONS FROM GRAND OPERAS.

Among the brilliant stars with the National Grand Opera company, which comes to the Opera house this evening, are the Duchess Gertrude Dudley, the direct lineal descendant of the original Duchess Dudley and the holder of the title today, who has a soprano voice of great range and has made a splendid success and been accorded highest honors wherever she has appeared; Miss Clara Mae Hammer, coloratura soprano, has a most even voice, adjudged marvelous for quality and range. The musical critics one and all have been unstinted in their praise of her as an artist. George Jenkins, tenor, has a voice that runs the whole gamut of the emotions, from the gentlest expressions and the tenderest moments to the rudest bursts of dramatic frenzy and mad passion. J. F. Kuehne, basso, sings with equal perfection operas by Verdi, Gounod, Wagner, Massenet, Noijo and Thomas. Mlle. Rose Sicardi, the famous violinist, considered the most brilliant artist of the times, and others.

AL. G. FIELD'S GREATER MINSTRELS.

Al. G. Field and his popular minstrel company will be seen at the Opera house Saturday evening. Field's Greater Minstrels have made the vocal music of their splendid entertainment one of its chief features. The singing contingent, under the efficient and capable direction of Paul La Londe, is larger and more talented than was ever brought together with a minstrel company. It has always been the purpose of this popular organization to offer the latest ballads of the day by the best singers. With this end in view, Reese Prosser, the eminent tenor, the best singer of the simple, touching melodies of the day, has been re-engaged. He stands pre-eminent among tenors. Walter Ross, a tenor robusto, has sung his way into popular favor throughout the country. His classical selections are a revelation to his auditors. The powerful baritone of Walter Broadwell has made him famous. Herbert Willison, alto, has a remarkable voice and is one of the song hits of the bill. Wm. Moore has made his mark during the years he has appeared as a tenor soloist; for his clear, pure voice has a charm for all. B. S. Carnes, contra-bass, adds to the general pleasing effect of the singing. Paul La Londe has a powerful basso profundo voice which has established his reputation throughout the country. A score of 20 cultured singers completes the great vocal contingent of the company.

JEAN GERARDY.

This world renowned Belgian violoncellist is one of the most remarkable figures in the world of music. Born in Liege, Belgium, 26 years ago, he derived a talent for melody from his father, who was famous himself in a city noted for having cradled much genius of the concert stage. It was decided that he should learn the violoncello, for which instrument he showed natural predilections. So, at the age of 7, he entered the Conservatorium, and six months later he captured the second prize in competition with young men of 20 years and more. It was as a mere boy of 11 years that he went forth as the youngest violoncellist, and in less than a year later France and Spain heard him with such admiration, that he was acclaimed the most wonderful genius in embryo of his time. In Vienna he appeared with Richter, and the Philharmonic society there awarded him a diploma. He was called "the Sarasate of the 'Cello." Gerardy's career is considered the most remarkable ever experienced by a musical artist of his years. At the age of 26 years he stands alone as the one truly great master of the 'cello. "What Ysaye is with the violin, Gerardy is with the 'cello," writes one of his critics. The instinctive artist, with his deep-seated feeling and his strong individuality, is stamped indelibly on every movement of his work.

DRUNKENNESS A DISEASE

Remarkable Results Following the Orrine Treatment—Can Be Given Secretly.

Dr. Norman Kerr, an English authority on alcoholism, says, "No disease is more common than inebriety, and yet none is so seldom or so slowly recognized."

There are but few families who have not one or more members afflicted with this terrible disease, for such it is. Will power alone will not cure the drink habit, but the scientific Orrine treatment is a tested and absolute cure. This treatment destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink is not missed. We seek the worst cases and cure them with Orrine.

Leading ministers and charity workers endorse Orrine in the highest terms, for they have seen the drunkard's home become happy and prosperous through the husband's cure by Orrine.

In one year the Bolton Drug Co., of Brooklyn, sold 5,750 boxes of Orrine without having a single complaint. It is no wonder that they and other leading druggists throughout the country guarantee Orrine as an absolute cure for the liquor habit or money will be refunded.

There are two forms of Orrine, No. 1, the secret remedy which can be given without the knowledge of the patient; No. 2, in pill form for those who wish to be cured. The price of either form is $1. Write for free pamphlet on the cure of alcoholism to the Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. It is the one guaranteed cure for the liquor habit, and in every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure.

Orrine is for sale by the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co.

Do Physics Make You Weak?

Most physics do. Salts, castor oil, and nearly all the patent tablets and pills sold as cathartics and laxatives have a dangerous effect upon the digestive organs. In time, strength is regained but not before great danger is done to the tissues of the bowels and intestines.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is not like any other physic you can take, because instead of weakening the intestinal muscles, it gives them strength sufficient to voluntarily perform their functions.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, unlike other remedies often taken for stomach disorders, does not create a habit which makes it necessary for the patient to continue its use. Physics that leave you weak, that cause you to perspire, and to feel nervous invariably do great harm.

You never experience any such unpleasant and dangerous sensations from taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a pleasantly palatable remedy which never causes griping and in all cases of constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, gas on stomach, and all other disorders arising from such ailments it quickly and permanently cures.

All druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

CONFUSION IN STREET NAMES.

IT IS a mystery how, in a city as small as Colorado Springs, there ever arose such confusion in the matter of naming the streets. It is said that in London the names King, Queen, Victoria, Prince Albert, and one or two others, are each given to nearly one hundred different streets. But London is about two hundred times as large as this place and the task of finding names for all the streets is correspondingly harder. Here, in a little city of 35,000 people, we have a formidable list of duplicate names, and of streets which are broken up into two or three small sections, each of which bears a different name.

For instance: there is a Washington street in the North End and a Washington Avenue on the West Side and in Colorado City. There is also a Washington Avenue in Manitou, but that is a different matter. There is a Jefferson Street in the North End and another on the West Side and in Colorado City. Oak Street, on the East Side, is divided into two sections, and there is also an Oak Avenue in Broadmoor, though this last is not of enough importance to add much to the confusion. There are five separate and distinct First streets listed in the city directory, one each in Broadmoor, Brookside, Roswell, West Colorado Springs and Colorado City, and a First East Street is also named. The streets which bear numbers are badly mixed up, the worst confusion arising from the fact that on the West Side the cross streets are numbered from First to Thirteenth, after which come First, Second, Third, etc., Colorado City.

There is really no excuse or reason for this poverty of street-names in the newer parts of the city. In the original townsite and the additions immediately north of the College the streets are admirably named, for the Spanish and Indian terms chosen are both distinctive and euphonious. But when the town began to branch out and names were needed for new streets, the question of nomenclature seems to have been left to anybody and everybody, with the result that we have the usual assortment of trees and Presidents, found in nine-tenths of the cities and towns in the country, and also the confusion arising from the causes above referred to.

It is regrettable that the city authorities have not consistently adhered to the original plan of selecting Spanish and Indian names. Some of them, such as Huerfano, Cucharas, and Sahwatch, (a corruption, we believe, of Saguache) are a little hard to pronounce at first acquaintance, but this difficulty is easily overcome, and the names are in every way preferable to the tree and President varieties. They are distinctively Western, the Spanish words being reminders of the early explorers who were the first white men to penetrate this region, more than three centuries ago, and of their successors. The Indian names, of course, require no explanation.

A resident of the West Side today contributes a letter on street names to the "Open Parliament" column, and it seems to us that her contention is well made. The Council is soon to consider an ordinance designed to correct some of the inaccuracies and confusion at present existing, and though the changes proposed would without doubt cause some inconvenience for a while, they would be beneficial in the long run.

THE CORONER'S JURY'S REPORT.

THE work of a coroner's jury is usually perfunctory, and has little or no practical bearing on the subsequent conduct of the case by higher authorities, so it is of small concern what the findings of such a body may be. The coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the recent wreck on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, near Adobe, has made a report which is at least interesting. Primary responsibility for the disaster is placed on the telegraph operator, Lively, who fell asleep while on duty. Night Operator Van Deusen is censured for leaving his post, thus making it necessary for Lively to work overtime. The jury then proceeds to make several recommendations as to the management of the railroad which will be promptly disregarded by the D. & R. G. officials.

It is declared that the signal system in use is wrong and ought to be changed, and that the company should either install the block signal system or double-track its roadway "for the further safeguarding of the lives and property of the traveling public." How President Jeffery and the other high officials of the D. & R. G. will laugh if they happen to hear of this! They very idea of putting in such an expensive luxury as a block signal system merely to safeguard the lives and property of the traveling public will excite their risibilities tremendously. Of course, with such a system the Adobe wreck probably never would have occurred, and the forty or more people who were burned and ground to death would be alive today. Similarly, if the road had long ago provided stone or steel bridges throughout its length, that train never would have gone into the creek near Eden, and 115 lives would have been saved.

But what business has an obscure coroner's jury, or anybody else, to talk about such things? Plainly, the men who made up that jury were woefully ignorant of the whys and wherefores of railroad management. To save them from making such a raw break somebody ought to have tipped off a few things to them. They should have been enlightened on the fact that block signal systems and substantial bridges, and solidly constructed coaches are all very nice things to have, but that they cost money and lots of it. And when the management of a railroad pursues the policy of first setting aside a portion of its receipts for dividends, then paying operating expenses, and finally using what is left—if there is any left—for improvements, it is easy to see that the improvements have a pretty slim chance.

President Jeffery and his associates will no doubt heartily indorse at least one finding of this coroner's jury, that is the statement that no criminal prosecution should be made, either of the railroad officials or of Lively. They may make an exception so far as Lively is concerned, but we can be reasonably certain that they will approve the other part of the finding. And of course there isn't the slightest probability that there ever will be a criminal action in this case, or any other kind of action except the damage suits filed by relatives of the victims. In a few weeks, or a few months at most, the forgetful public will have wiped the whole disagreeable business from its memory, never to think of it again until another horrible disaster recalls it to mind.

But just the same there will be an end some time to this method of managing railroads. The men whose greed for dividends causes them to ignore the safety of the traveling public simply must be taught a lesson, and this can be done only by passing laws which will make them criminally liable for the consequences of their neglect. The moral effect of a few railroad presidents and directors wearing striped suits for this kind of criminality would be highly salutary.

CARNEGIE'S OPINIONS.

IT IS said that Andrew Carnegie's wealth today is greater than ever before. He has built hundreds of public libraries here and there, he has contributed large sums to the cause of education, to the endowment of a "hero" fund and the like, he has assisted in the building of a few churches and now he is financing a scheme to simplify English spelling which will cost him thousands of dollars each year. But he is getting older every day and his wealth continues to pile up. Therefore, the public is beginning to wonder how he is to die a poor man and save himself from the "disgrace" which he not so long ago said attaches to the man who dies rich. Perhaps Mr. Carnegie does not consider himself an old man yet; indeed there is no apparent reason why he should not live many years longer. But to give away such a vast amount of money as he has accumulated and is accumulating from day to day, and do it judiciously and to the best advantage from the viewpoint of a philanthropist, would probably require more years than he has to live.

It was a poet who, while in bed at noon, wrote something about early to bed and early to rise. So it is and so it ever has been—men rarely practice what they preach, though their preaching may be full of the soundest advice. "Beyond a competence for old age, which need not be very great and may be very small, wealth lessens rather than increases human happiness. Millionaires who laugh are rare," Mr. Carnegie recently said. If one-tenth of our wealthiest men were as generous as Mr. Carnegie there would be little cause for complaint. Everybody will admit that he has been liberal to an unusual degree, and they would expect little more if he had not once said that he would not die "rich and disgraced." He has given away far more money than any other man who ever lived and has accomplished a great deal of good. But in spite of his liberality he will "have to hurry" if he accomplishes his expressed purpose.

"Millionaires who laugh are rare." Millionaires are all right if they acquire their riches honestly,—we need them just as much as we need the poor working man—but the public would like to see more of them reduce themselves to a condition where they might have at least one good, hearty laugh before they die. Mr. Carnegie ought to start a movement to bring this kind of happiness to his fellow millionaires.

Lincoln Steffens says he can get plenty of information from Government officials in Washington, but most of it only after he has promised not to tell. It is barely possible that this indicates that there are some things in Washington which won't bear telling.

David S. Rose, who has been nominated for his fifth term as mayor of Milwaukee, is the man who wanted to start a bloody revolution in Arizona a few months ago in opposition to statehood. Thus was Milwaukee made doubly famous.

Of the many reasons for being thankful that we live in Colorado, not the least just now is the fact that the coal strike won't touch us.

The cottonseed products sold last year were valued at $52,000,000. Now we know where all the pure olive oil comes from.

MORE INFORMATION REQUIRED.

An addition has been made to the list of freak vegetation, a scientist declaring that he recently discovered in the wilds of Austria a genuine singing tree. We have heard of the upas tree, with its deadly odor; the man-eating tree, whose limbs stretched forth to grasp and draw into a fatal embrace the unwary victim, and the balloon tree, which when loosened from the restraint of its attenuated roots arose in air and soared away above the trackless wilds. But the singing tree is something new. Unfortunately the scientists fail to give us the range of its voice or the style of music it prefers.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LIEUT. PIKE'S DIARY

For One Hundred Years Ago Today

Friday, 28th March, 1806.—Late in the afternoon Mr. Grant and the Sauteurs took their departure, calculating that the Sioux had left the country. Taking with me one of my soldiers, I accompanied them to the lodge of the Shawonoes, where we stayed all night. The Fols Avoins and Sauteurs had a dance, at which I left them and went to sleep. Feasted on elk, sugar and syrup. Previously to the Indians' departure from my post, I demanded the chief's medal and flags; the former he delivered, but with a bad grace, the latter he said were in the lands where I left Lake de Sable, instructed I suppose, by the traders, and that he could not obtain them. It thundered and lightened this day.

Open Parliament

THE STREET NAMES.

To the Editor of The Gazette.

I see by yesterday morning's paper that it is the intention of the city council to change the names of some of our streets. I am glad of this, for the present system gives rise to a good deal of annoyance to the residents of the west side. But the change proposed does not cover the whole difficulty. The greater part of the trouble arises from the fact that Colorado City also has numbered streets. Changing the number of our streets to correspond with the number of the blocks will not avoid the present confusion between the streets of Colorado Springs and Colorado City.

I have lived on one of the numbered streets of the west side for twelve years—and scarcely a week passes but mistakes, more or less annoying—arise over this matter. Delivery men are constantly taking goods belonging on the west side to Colorado City, and vice versa.

Last week a man hauled three and a half tons of coal from the mines north of town. It was intended for Fourth street, Colorado Springs, but someone made a mistake in giving the driver the address and he took the heavy load to Fourth street, Colorado City, and then had to bring it back to Fourth street, Colorado Springs.

It is an every day occurrence to have someone come to the door asking for people by name, who, they are sure, live on this street. A question or two brings out the fact that the people they are seeking must live on Fourth street, Colorado City.

A number of times friends from out of town have made the mistake of looking for us in Colorado City. They tell the street car conductor that they want to get off at Fourth street. He says, "Fourth street, City?" and knowing nothing of a town called Colorado City they say "yes," supposing the conductor to mean the city of Colorado Springs. Then they spent time and strength looking for us in Colorado City till someone kindly suggests that the address they are seeking is in Colorado Springs.

The only real remedy that I can see is to name, instead of number, the streets of one or the other of these two cities. In Colorado City the street numbers already correspond to the numbers of the blocks, so there is no need of change there on that account. Colorado Springs has other numbered streets in the south part of town. It seems to me the simplest way out of the difficulty is to give names to the numbered streets in West Colorado Springs.

Another source of confusion is this: Colorado avenue of the west side continues, with the same name and a repetition of the same numbers, through Colorado City. This could be remedied by calling the Colorado Springs street of that name—West Huerfano, of which street it is a continuation. Washington avenue should be called West Pike's Peak; Grant avenue, West Cucharas, etc.

If the city council will make these changes it will save much annoyance to the residents of the west side, to merchants and their delivery men and to strangers in the city. I hope that the street committee will look into the matter and not make the mistake of changing the street numbers in such a way that the real difficulty is not remedied. The people living in the numbered streets in Colorado City will be benefited by such a change as is here proposed as much as the people of West Colorado Springs.

FLORA J. PLIMPTON

Colorado Springs, March 27.
16 South Fourth street.

A GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY.

An open letter to City Attorney W. C. Robinson:

Sir: The events of the past few days, culminating in Monday night's action of the city council, places you in position of gravest responsibility to the taxpayers of Colorado Springs, who will await and watch your every move in this matter of the Hydro-Electric proceeding with keen personal interest; not to say very possible condemnation should you take a hasty or unfortunate step; since men will better tolerate delay than a precipitate act which involves the innocent party (which the taxpayer is) in a damage suit.

The first step in such precipitate action—as many think—was taken by our city council at said meeting; notwithstanding a very plain editorial in The Gazette, and a still more urgent warning from the mayor of our city against committing itself irrevocably. But that blunder, if such it was, it not yet irreparable, since the resolution of the council puts in your hand, and in yours alone, a check upon itself; in other words it leaves you to determine upon the wisdom of its said action.

You may, of course, adopt the theory that the city council has elected a course of action which it is merely your business to now direct in legal channels; be the peril small or great; but, Mr. City Attorney, the taxpayers—at least some of them—will read the occurrence differently, and will believe that your present position gives you really a veto power in effect, if such veto power would be the safer present course, the resolution reading that "the superintendent of water works . . . is instructed . . . in each step of . . . proceeding to act under the advice and instruction of the city attorney." If you do not instruct him, therefore, he cannot do a single act; and if, on the contrary, you do instruct him to do any act which can possibly involve this city and its property owners in financial debt to a corporation, you, Mr. Attorney, will be not only the instrument or agent but the real responsible cause for such unfavorable outcome to the citizens, if, by your different advice all necessary adjustment of difficulties could have been effected without peril to them. It is a pretty big responsibility for one man to shoulder; too big, in fact, for the city council to quite accept, as is manifest from a careful reading of the proceedings, and in the intimation from one councilman that since you, sir, and not themselves were elected by the whole people of the city to represent them, the responsibility had better be placed in your hands!

There you have the whole cue! What will you do with it?

I, as a taxpayer, ask you, Mr. Attorney, to carefully reflect that no matter how earnest and honest a man or an attorney may be, yet every human judgment is liable to error, sometime; and that already the correctness of forfeiture proceedings has been seriously questioned by a lawyer whose legal acumen must be ranked as probably as trustworthy as your own. When Mayor Hall, having the taxpayers' interests at heart quite as conscientiously as you can have, solemnly declares that forfeiture proceedings "involves the greatest risk to the taxpayers of the city, for in the event that the courts decide the controversy in favor of the company, it will result in the depreciation of every foot of property within the corporation limits," that warning is not to be lightly set aside by any one attorney's judgment. Such a proceeding would be very like the act of a surgeon who cuts into a patient not really sick enough to require a dangerous operation, without consultation with a brother physician, on the hypothesis that the operation might restore the patient's rights in an organ, but if it did not, it was very sure to do him a greater harm!

As one individual citizen I venture to say that we taxpayers prefer not to stand the dubious and quite unnecessary operation; we would rather try milder remedies first.

And finally, Mr. City Attorney, don't mistake your obligation, in this case, as only the appointed executioner of a city council's wavering and un-unanimous debate, but rather as the providential interpreter and conservative defender of the real interests of your actual clients—the taxpayers!

Respectfully,
March 27, 1906. G. B. PRICE.

SIDEWALKS FOR FORT MORGAN.

In a few weeks the cement walks will commence to go down on Main street and also in the residence portion of town. The cement walk is adopted everywhere are the handsomest, best, and cheapest in the long run. There should be an ordinance passed against putting down any other kind of a sidewalk in this prosperous and beautiful town of Fort Morgan. It saves shoe leather, tangle-foot-falls, looks good, and is a joy forever.—Ft. Morgan Times.

River Refuses to Enter The Ocean

It Has Turned 700 Square Miles of Desert Land Into an Inland Sea.

IN southern California is a large salt lake of such recent formation that even the latest and most expensive atlases fail to note its existence, yet it has a surface area of about 700 square miles, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Salton sea, as this body of water is known, is the result of an irrigation enterprise that went wrong because the engineers had not calculated upon the waywardness of the Colorado river. The village of Salton, which had a population of about 100, all of whom were employed by a salt company whose works were established there, has been swept from the land and now lies under twenty-four feet of water.

The Southern Pacific railroad has been compelled to rebuild 100 miles of its line; two irrigation companies, one American, the other Mexican, have seen a quarter of a million dollars' worth of work disappear almost in the twinkling of an eye, and it is within the bounds of possibility that the newly formed lake will demand the offices of the diplomatists of the United States and Mexico in disposing of the complications which may arise.

Depression an Ancient Basin.

The depression which the diverted waters of the Colorado river are now filling at the rate of 9,000 cubic feet a second is a part of the Great Basin, once a mighty sea and tributary to the Pacific through the Columbia river, and until recently survived only in the rapidly diminishing Great Salt Lake in Utah. The particular depression now being filled is known as the Salton basin, and lies at its center 287 feet below sea level. It covers an approximate area of 2,500 square miles, and is partly in Riverside and partly in San Diego counties, California, with the southerly and extending a short distance into Mexico, south of Calexico, an American town on the border.

The basin is defined by an old beach that can be traced all around the lake. This beach is filled with small marine and fresh-water shells, perfect in form, but which crumble under slight pressure. The fact that this beach in many places still retains its old form despite the force of sandstorms and other action on the part of the elements is held by some as conclusive evidence that the basin was a sea at no very distant time.

There are some who hold the opinion that, if the flow of the Colorado is not controlled, it will, in time, again fill the entire basin to sea level.

This newest salt lake is now from 10 to eighteen miles wide, about forty-five miles long, twenty-three feet four inches in depth at the deepest sounding, and is rising steadily at the rate of from one-half to three-quarters of an inch daily under combined inflow of the Colorado and Gila rivers.

The Gila empties into the Colorado about three miles above Yuma, Ariz., the hottest and dryest place on the face of the earth, and from there the combined flow formerly swept on 100 miles to the Gulf of California.

Today from a point twelve miles south of Yuma and four miles below the line in Mexico the river bed of the Colorado is a dust-dry sandy waste, five feet higher than the present channel, the river having changed its course from due south to west-south-west. Even at low water the flow is pouring into Salton Sea by two channels—those of the Alamo and New Rivers.

Due to Irrigation Work.

Possibly the most ambitious reclamation scheme undertaken by private enterprise in the United States is that of the California Development company, which has undertaking to irrigate by gravity from the Colorado river, some 700,000 or 800,000 acres of desert, about one-fourth of which, more or less, lies in Mexico. This enterprise was talked of for years, but was invariably rejected as involving too many risks.

In April, 1896, however, some years before the passage of the national irrigation act, and when there was no reason to expect any early reclamation except by private enterprise, the California Development company was organized in New Jersey, with a capitalization of $1,250,000, and a sufficient amount subscribed to warrant a beginning of the undertaking.

The work has been prosecuted with some energy, and several thousand people have already established homes amid fertile fields where, a few years ago, there was nothing but desert.

When, under the national irrigation act, all lands irrigable from the Colorado were withdrawn from entry, except under the homestead act, with a view to their irrigation by government works, the lands irrigable from the canals of the California Development company were excepted, in order that the work of settlement might proceed without hindrance.

The physical elements of the problem were land and water. There was a desert lying partly in Mexico, but consisting, within the United States, of public land up to the limits of the Southern Pacific railroad grant, within which each alternate section was public land. Thus far all operations have been conducted on public lands. The first step towards private reclamation was to get the land, the products of which must pay the investor, into private ownership and get possession of the water with which to irrigate it.

What the development company had to do, therefore, was to induce settlers to buy this land of the government—or the railroad company—and enter into a contract with the company to deliver the water. The effort of the company, therefore, was to sell the government land with one share of its own water stock for each acre. This has been accomplished, it is said, to the extent of more than 200,000 acres.

The California Development company and the Mexican Society for Land Irrigation are companies organized for the development of land along the southeastern border of California and the northeastern border of Lower California. The companies are identical, the same men on the directorate controlling both. The Mexican company was organized under the laws of the state of Sonora. The water for irrigation was to be taken from the Colorado at the upper heading just within the borders of the United States. The main canal, known as the Alamo, followed the bed of the dry watercourse of that name.

River Beyond Control.

This was dredged and the water turned in. At low water the flow was sluggish, the canal filled with silt, water became scarce and the California settlers clamorous. A. H. Heber, then president of the companies, ordered the intake known as the "Imperial." It was cut at the lower heading and connected the river with the Alamo canal. It is claimed that neither proper headgates, wing dams nor bulkheads were constructed, and the water from the river, pouring through at a terrific rate, was soon beyond control. The flow scoured the Alamo canal into a river, deepened and cut away the banks, cut out headgates in the lower canal system, flooded some farms and left others without water. The company then made what is known as the Quail river cut from the canal into the Rio Padrones, hoping to check the flood by turning it into the Padrones and from thence into Volcano lake, forty miles below the Mexican line, whence it might be carried to the gulf by way of Hardy's Colorado.

For a few days the plan worked all right. Then the settlers on the California side were surprised to see the flood of yellow water come sweeping down New river in greatly increased volume, and Salton sea began rising rapidly. That happened early in last May, about the time that a series of short, sharp earthquake shocks shook things up in that country and cracked the big brick warehouse at Brawley, in Imperial valley. The development company sent out a force of engineers and laborers to locate the source of the trouble, and it was found near the mouth of the Rio Padrones, where the usually dry water course was choked with silt and driftwood, forcing the flood waters into New River a short distance north of Volcano lake.

Elevations were taken, surveys run and a levee hastily constructed. Volcano lake is two feet below sea level, and from its northern end the water may flow either north into Salton sea or south into the gulf. Unfortunately, the levee was constructed on what proved to be the higher side, narrowing the current and forcing it with greater violence through the New river cut-off, which was soon too wide to be closed. The water is still pouring into New river, and from there almost due north to Salton sea, seventy-five miles away.

All efforts to check the flow are now concentrated at the upper and lower headings. It is claimed that the work will be finished by May 1, but a year ago the same thing was said—that it would be finished by last May; yet nearly $250,000 have been dumped into the river, and there is nothing to show for it but a diverted river and a lake in the heart of the Colorado desert.

Salton, the little village, is now practically off the map. It formerly contained three or four residences, a store and postoffice, a rancheria of seventy-five Indians and a colony of Japanese, all under the control of the New Liverpool Salt company. A warehouse and the station are all that remain of the hamlet. The other buildings are jetsam and flotsam in the mud along the beach of Salton sea.

The salt company saved its records and its locomotives. The remainder of the plant, machinery, several miles of railroad track, the grinding house, drying house, engine house and warehouse are deep under water in mud and silt; the roof of the three-and-a-half-story frame drying house yet shows above the surface. The other buildings have long since been battered into wreckage and strewn along the beach by the resistless force of the heavy, choppy sea. While the water of the surface and edges of the lake or sea is brackish to salt, the water taken from the bottom at the deepest place is so heavily charged with salt that it resembles a thin, milk colored syrup.

Marvelous Natural Phenomenon.

The flooding of this basin is the greatest assisted natural phenomenon in recent years, changing the course of one of the greatest rivers in the west, converting a desert into an inland sea, with a possible change of climate in a territory larger than all the New England states.

At present Salton sea is a beautiful sheet of water, and is a never-failing surprise to tourists after crossing hundreds of miles of arid wastes of sand, greasewood and cactus. To the west from the head of the sea tower the snow-capped peaks of Mount San Bernardino and Mount San Jacinto, each about 12,000 feet high. For ages the San Bernardino range has held back the restless, crawling sands of the thirsty desert, and now sparkling waves ripple about the base of the mountains. Opposite Salton the sea is about ten miles wide, and the mountains rising darkly to the west are mirrored on its surface. Except for the breeze which comes stealing across the sea from the southwest about 11 a. m., the surface is unruffled, but there are rare occasions when the wind kicks up a nasty sea of short, choppy waves five or six feet high, in which flat-bottomed skiffs cannot live.

It is now the Southern Pacific's fight. The development company, the irrigation company, the land company have all been relegated to the position of sponge and bottle holders, and the Southern Pacific has stripped against its old enemy, the Colorado river.

WHERE HE SHINES.

He has always got plenty to say
Upon that it is safe to rely,
He will talk on all subjects all day,
Though on brains he's decidedly shy.
But that won't disconcert him a jot;
He is welcome where'er he may go;
He's a social success, for he's got
Such a fine conversational flow.

He will babble away about art,
Though he doesn't know putty from paint;
And his views he will gladly impart
Of a book without any restraint.
He will rail at an intricate plot,
And the way to improve it he'll show,
He's a social success, for he's got
Such a fine conversational flow.

He is up on the market report,
With some small information ahead;
He is thoroughly posted on sport,
And he can give you a tip—"on the dead."
He is simply a pinhead—a dot,
Who imagines he's in on the know,
But a social success for he's got
Such a fine conversational flow.

RESPECT THE AGED.

(Our jokes, since they are all that remain to us of the popular oral arts, since they have taken the place of ballads and folksong, have a deep significance.—The Speaker.)

I think that we can get along
Without the ballad or the song,
And, after all, the merry jest
Is best.

This life is often far from gay,
Why should we sing a doleful lay?
'Tis better, as I said, by half,
To laugh.

The folk tale has a pleasant ring,
And furthermore there is a thing
That recommends it to the sage—
Its age.

But what of that? I beg to state
The jokes most new and up-to-date
Unquestionably older are
By far.

Brave Women

Woman's delicate nerve organism subjects them to much suffering.

As a rule they overlook the wonderful influence their nervous system has upon their general health.

They are not sufficiently impressed with the fact that all their ills are directly traceable to the nervous system.

That their periodical sufferings and headaches are due to weakened nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

is wonderfully successful in revitalizing the nerves and curing all forms of nervous disorder, and loss of vitality.

"I was afflicted with female weakness and extreme nervousness. At times was entirely helpless. Three physicians treated me without results. Finally I took Dr. Miles' Nervine and began to improve, and 4 bottles cured me."

Home Baking with ROYAL Baking Powder

The United States Agricultural Department has issued (and circulates free) a valuable report with the results of elaborate experiments made by and under the direction of the Department, which shows the great saving from baking at home, as compared with cost of buying at the bakery. All bread, cake, biscuit, crullers, etc., are very much fresher, cleaner, cheaper and more wholesome when made at home with Royal Baking Powder.

COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to be. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and better than the plain oil.

JAMES P. BUSSEY EXALTED RULER

ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS LAST NIGHT BY COLORADO SPRINGS LODGE NO. 309, B. P. O. E.

In one of the most spirited elections ever held by Colorado Springs lodge No. 309, B. P. O. Elks, James P. Bussey was last night elected exalted ruler. Mr. Bussey is connected with the Shields-Motley Grocery company. He is one of the most popular Elks in the city, as is attested by his victory last night over a number of candidates.

The other officers elected are George L. Taylor, esteemed leading knight; C. B. Horn, esteemed loyal knight; R. L. Hubbard, esteemed lecturing knight; A. Van Vechten, secretary; F. M. McMahon, treasurer; James P. Davis, tiler; S. N. Nye, trustee; Dr. M. P. Reynolds, delegate to grand lodge; T. J. Black, alternate.

Two hundred and fifty members of the lodge were present at the meeting last night, showing the great interest in the race for exalted ruler.

THEY CAME, SAW AND APOLOGIZED

GOLDFIELD DELEGATION WITH BIG PETITION GET RAPID FIRE ACTION ON THEIR GRIEVANCES.

Armed with a monster petition, signed by many business men and other citizens of Goldfield and Independence, a delegation came to Colorado Springs yesterday to wait upon William Lennox and E. W. Giddings and learn why Midland trains were not to be operated over the property of the Strong Gold Mining company, depriving Independence and Goldfield of regular mail and passenger service. Their visit was brief.

When the joint arrangement between the Cripple Creek roads was made, the practice of running a stub train from Cameron to Victor was discontinued, and the trip was made by using a private track which crosses the Strong property. A few days ago notice was served upon the railroad company that on and after April 1 trains would not be permitted to use this branch. Citizens of Goldfield and Independence were irate at what they thought was the unfair attitude of Messrs. Lennox and Giddings, owners of the Strong. Petitions were circulated and, signed by many, were brought down yesterday by H. Herz, H. L. Donnell, James Inman, W. A. Harrison, J. S. Beckman, Paul M. North, E. Mitterer and Val Getz.

To the delegation Messrs. Lennox and Giddings explained that the railway tracks now being used ran between the ore house and shaft house of the Strong mine, that it was necessary for employes to cross this track frequently and that the company could not afford to take the risk of accidents. With a few other points, it took but a short time to convince the delegation that the mine owners were right in their contentions, and the delegation left, apologizing for having come.

The delegation then called upon General Manager Waters of the consolidated roads, but he could give them no assurances regarding the traffic and mail service to be established.

GOOD COURTS; VILE COFFEE

SWEDISH JURIST HERE STUDYING JUVENILE DELINQUENCY LAWS—KICKS ABOUT COOKS.

Judge Harold Saloman, of Stockholm, who has general supervision of the juvenile courts of Sweden, believes that the United States has an admirable system of caring for cases of juvenile delinquency, but as for the cookery of this country—it is "unspeakably wretched." Judge Saloman is touring America to study its juvenile courts and probation system, and he arrived at the Alamo hotel last night. He has been entertained by President Roosevelt.

As the judge emerged from the Alamo dining room after dinner last night he was asked how he liked America.

"Oh, it is so trying to eat here. Why, the coffee that they brought me at dinner was quite undrinkable."

"Is Colorado Springs coffee different from that served you when dining with President Roosevelt?" was asked.

"Oh, no; it is all just the same. I told your president that I could not swallow his coffee. It tastes so nasty, you know."

After Judge Saloman had lighted a cigar to remove "the awful taste of that coffee" from his mouth, he talked interestingly of juvenile delinquency.

"In Sweden a child under 15 years of age is never allowed in court. Such cases are handled by a commission, who hear reports of the child's conduct and make a decision without coming in contact with the charge. In America, your juvenile judges see the children in person and try to help them by counsel, which I think a better plan than that followed in my country.

"I like the law in force here holding parents responsible for their children's wrong-doing. It is a splendid idea, and I will introduce it in Sweden upon my return."

Judge Saloman will leave this morning for San Francisco where he will study the probation system in vogue there.

MINE MERGER ACCOMPLISHED

MARY McKINNEY-ANACONDA CONSOLIDATION CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY—TO DECLARE DIVIDEND.

With 864,000 out of the 900,000 shares of outstanding stock of the Mary McKinney Mining company represented, a unanimous vote was cast at the meeting yesterday favoring the increase in its capital stock from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 shares for the purpose of acquiring the Anaconda Gold Mining company. Of the amount represented, there was about 300,000 shares in proxies.

Among those who attended the meeting were F. F. Castello, W. S. Nichols, Charles E. Mudd, of Denver, H. T. Jones and George L. Keener. It was announced that the directors of the Anaconda would hold a meeting in Denver next week to complete transfer of the stock. When this is done a dividend amounting to $40,000 will be declared.

It is understood the merged company will have between $110,000 and $125,000 in its treasury.

The annual meeting of the Mary McKinney will be held in July, when F. J. Campbell, now of Anaconda, will be elected to a place on the directorate.

The valves had not been changed.

Heavy snow in the mountains during the last 36 hours is reported from the Half-Way house, where eight inches of the beautiful was registered. The telephone wire to Lake Moraine was not working on account of the storm, but it is understood that the snowfall extended over the entire watershed.

SPLIT AMONG THE YEOMEN

ROW AT QUADRENNIAL CONCLAVE CAUSES FOUNDING OF NEW ORDER.

FOUNDERS OF THE B. A. Y. ORGANIZE "THE HOMESTEADERS," A NEW FRATERNAL ORGANIZATION.

J. E. Paul and Dr. C. B. Paul of Des Moines, Ia., founders of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, are organizing "The Homesteaders," another fraternal insurance company, and a lodge will be established in Colorado Springs as soon as permission to enter Colorado is granted. The split in the Brotherhood of American Yeomen has come, according to well-known active local members.

Factional Strife.

Colorado Springs was the battle ground for the two factions struggling for control of Yeomen affairs when the quadrennial conclave of the order was held, November 21-28. The followers of J. E. Paul, one of the brothers who brought the order into existence, desired to have him elected as grand foreman. He formerly had been deprived of this office on charges of mismanagement and a young man, William Koch, succeeded to the position.

With an able force of lieutenants and coworkers Koch waged a bitter fight for the office, and his forces were so well aligned that they were victorious. Efforts were made to compromise by the selection of a third party, but the Koch politicians would make no concessions. Finally a large number of the Paul followers and other persons interested in the election of a third man for harmony's sake, threatened to secede from the order if Koch was elected. The weight of this threat, however, was not sufficient to alter the outcome, the slate going through without a scratch.

Order Incorporated.

But now, according to a local authority, there is to be some trouble. The Paul brothers have incorporated The Homesteaders under the laws of Iowa, along the same lines as the Yeomen, but with a broader scope which, it is believed by Paul adherents, will make trouble for the other organization.

"The Homesteaders is the outgrowth of the bitter fight for the grand foremanship in Colorado Springs last fall," said a prominent member of the Yeomen last evening. "The Pauls organized the Yeomen, built the order up to prosperity and then were deprived of the benefits of their labor, unjustly, I think. The Koch faction used every possible means to defeat J. E. Paul for grand foreman, and, it is charged, some of the methods were so 'raw' that many members expressed a determination to quit the order. The talk was made so strong that the Paul brothers decided to organize another order and, while this movement has just been launched, I understand they have received policy applications amounting to over $2,500,000. The new company will take in persons up to 60 years of age, whereas the Yeomen and other companies stop at 50 years. The way is being paved for a lodge to be established here and it is understood that quite a number of local Yeomen have pledged themselves to become members.

First Conclave Here.

"It is probable the first annual conclave of the order will be held in Colorado Springs. All of the Yeomen delegates enjoyed themselves here and expressed a desire to return. The Koch faction of the Yeomen, however, were so bitter against some of the members of Columbine homestead No. 141, that they prevented mention of the local lodge's efforts to entertain being made in the official publication."

J. E. Paul, of Des Moines, is president of The Homesteaders; Allen J. Pyle, Des Moines, secretary; H. D. Copeland, Burlington, Ia., treasurer and Dr. C. B. Paul, Des Moines, medical director.

Because of the part taken in the grand foremanship contest, Colorado Springs was denied representation in the officiary of the Yeomen. It is understood the new order purposes getting established here as soon as possible, and that the intention is to give Coloradoans considerable recognition. It also is said that the project for a national home, in which Colorado Springs lost to Des Moines, is to be taken up by The Homesteaders as soon as the order is financially able.

WITH THE POLICE

For violating the health ordinances by dumping rubbish within the city limits Oliver Brooks, a scavenger, was fined $100 and costs in the police court yesterday. The court suspended a part of the penalty with the distinct understanding that a repetition of the offense would result in the entire amount being collected together with any additional penalty being imposed.

Andy Jimino and A. Cimeno, Italian miners, who were arrested Monday night while intoxicated upon the streets, were fined $5 and costs each. The total bill amounted to $16.10 and was paid.

John Bateman and William Halleran, charged with vagrancy and suspicion, were fined $10 and costs each and committed to the rock pile.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB'S FAULT

MORALLY RESPONSIBLE SAYS POLICE CHIEF FOR A MIDNIGHT ORGY.

YOUTH WHO BROKE INTO BILLIARD HALL AND DID OTHER DAMAGE MAKES REPARATION.

While crazy drunk, it is alleged, after having been present at the Democratic club Monday night, a young man 25 years of age and a member of the club, broke into the rooms in the Durkee building early Tuesday morning and not only did considerable damage to the club property, but received cuts about the hands that may result seriously.

The young man with a number of friends had been at the club rooms for several hours Monday night and left the building when the club closed at midnight. They went to the Majestic hall where a dance was in progress, but were refused admission on account of their intoxicated condition. Returning to the club rooms with a view to securing more liquor, the young man broke several panes of glass and did other damage amounting to about $150. The affair was reported to the police and while detectives were at work on the case the young man, accompanied by members of his family, appeared at police headquarters and made every reparation possible. As no complaint has been filed, it is probable that no further action will be taken.

With reference to the Democratic club, Police Chief Alex Adams last evening said: "It was but a few days ago that I had a talk with the management of the club with reference to the manner in which it has been conducted and I was assured that the business of the club would be so regulated that further complaint would be unnecessary. I understand that the young man is a member of the club and had been drinking there with friends during the early part of the evening so that the management is at least morally responsible for his condition at the time the damage was done. What action will be taken with reference to the club has not yet been determined."

Scheme by Which People Can View Scenery Without Risk

The scenic beauties of the Short Line trip from Colorado Springs to Cripple Creek are to be set forth in Hale cars—the latest and greatest of moving picture exhibitions. H. H. Buckwalter, of Denver, will come to Colorado Springs this week for the purpose of taking the Short Line scenery while seated with his camera on the pilot of one of the big engines. The pictures will be sent east for use in Hale cars. These cars are now abundant in the larger cities east and are said to be the most popular amusement device invented in years. For a small admission, people are allowed to enter the cars. When the car is full, the blinds are drawn and the moving pictures spread on the end of the car. Whenever a curve is shown in the pictures, the car is lurched to one side. If the pictures are of an inclined track, the car is tipped accordingly. This makes the trip so realistic that those in the car feel as well satisfied as if they had traveled all over the world to make the remarkable trips pictured.

There are very few genuine specimens of the great masters in existence, and a genuine original Chippendale, Sheraton or Heppelwhite article of furniture is of great value, almost priceless.

Most of the antiques are reproductions made during the past one hundred years.

The age of antique furniture is largely determined by the drawer work and construction.

Before investing heavily in "antiques," consult a reliable and expert cabinet maker as to the genuineness of the "antique" in question. Recently a Denver party purchased in New Orleans a suite of "old southern" mahogany furniture at $800; that was made during the past year and can be duplicated by any first class dealer at $480. WHEAT MARKET FAIRLY STEADY

IS WEAK AT OPENING BUT REGAINS LOST GROUND—CORN AND OATS OFF—PROVISIONS STRONG.

CHICAGO, March 27.—At the opening of the session sentiment in the wheat pit was somewhat bearish and the initial quotation showed slight declines, the May delivery being off 1-8@1-4 to 1-4 at 77 1-2@5-8, to 77 5-8.

The chief factors contributing to the easier feeling in the market were a decline at Liverpool, the mild weather throughout the winter wheat sections of the United States, liberal receipts at Minneapolis and the weekly foreign crop report which gave a generally favorable outlook for wheat crops of foreign countries. The moderate decline brought about covering by several shorts who took in heavy lines of wheat and the market more than regained the early loss. Trading dragged somewhat during the remainder of the session until near the close when the May option sold off from 78 1-8 to 77 5-8. The decline was due to poor demand rather than to any heavy selling pressure. The market closed fairly steady with May at 77 5-8@3-4. The July delivery ranged between 77 1-4@3-8 and 77 7-8, and closed unchanged at 77 1-2.

There was persistent selling in the corn market all day by commission houses and cash interests. This fact, aided by a decline at Liverpool, caused a weak market throughout the session. The principal demand came from shorts. The market closed easy. May opened 1-8 to 1-8@1-4 lower at 42 3-8@3-4 to 43 3-4, sold between 42 1-2 and 42 7-8@44, and closed at 42 5-8@3-4.

Oats were weak all day on selling by commission houses and cash dealers. The chief incentive to the selling movement was the prevailing mild weather. May opened 1-8 to 1-8@1-4 lower at 30 1-8@1-4 to 30 1-4, sold off to 29 7-8 and closed at 30.

Provisions were active and strong. There was good general demand for all products and a local packer bought lard freely. The reasons for the excellent demand were heavy shipments of meat and lard and a 10-cent advance in the price of live hogs. At the close May pork was up 25c at $16.57 1-2. Lard was 12 1-2 to 15c higher at $8.47 1-2. Ribs were up 10 cents at $8.50.

EL PASO FLOODED

WATER RISES FOUR HUNDRED FEET IN SHORT TIME. STOCK SLUMPS.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 27.—The El Paso mine is flooded and the pumps are lost. Late last night the miners put in a round of shots while following the C. K. & N. vein at a depth of 1,000 feet. The water quickly rose to within a few feet of the 600-foot, or tunnel level. This means that 100 men will be out of work unless the water problem can be overcome. The water is believed to come from the C. K. & N. and Old Gold mines, which had a quantity of water just below the 400-foot level.

On the Colorado Springs exchange yesterday El Paso opened at 70, or 21 cents lower than the close on Monday's call; it dropped to 57 and then reacted, closing at 59 bid after sales of 13,000 shares. Announcement of the water troubles was made before the call.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 27.—The Vindicator company on Bull hill has encountered the Glorietta vein, which was so productive in the Hull City placer. The ore shoot was found at 1,000 feet depth and is six feet wide. It is learned on good authority that the ore will run between $100 and $200 to the ton.

Lessee Sellers, operating at 100 feet on the Mariposa claim, has a streak of ore from which he will ship today. It will run $10 to $20 to the ton.

James Doyle of Portland fame today shipped in a carload of machinery for his new cyanide mill on the Homerun claim on Squaw mountain. Associated with Doyle are Denver capitalists. He has a big body of ore that will run between $8 and $10 and can be handled thoroughly by cyanidation.

Newton and Petersen, operating on block 20 of the Anaconda, today shipped a carload of ore that will give returns of $35.

CONSTANTINE CONS.

Reorganization Plans Are Approved Without a Contesting Vote.

At a meeting of stockholders in the Constantine Consolidated Mining company, held in the Mining Exchange building yesterday morning, the plan for reorganizing the company under the laws of Wyoming was approved. There were no contesting votes. Approximately 1,000,000 shares of the 1,400,000 outstanding were represented at the meeting.

For two years the Constantine company has held 200,000 shares of stock of the Jennie Sample Consolidated Mining company. Recently 50,000 shares of this was sold at 10 cents a share, to pay taxes and other obligations. It has been decided to distribute the remaining 150,000 shares in the way of a stock dividend.

The company is to be reorganized under Wyoming laws with its present capitalization, 1,500,000 shares, and stockholders, upon surrender of stock certificates will receive stock in the new company and a dividend of 100 shares of Jennie Sample on each 1,000 shares. W. C. Stark is president and N. S. Grandy, secretary, of the Constantine company.

STOCKS TURN BACK AGAIN

MONDAY'S UPWARD MOVEMENT IS REVERSED—PROBABLE COAL STRIKE AN IMPORTANT INFLUENCE.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Yesterday's upward movement of prices was reversed in the stock market today. The nominal ground for the change in the course of the market was the disagreement between coal miners and operators at Indianapolis. The outcome of the conference has been so clearly foretold, however, that it is doubtful whether today's action [illegible] any important steps to be taken [illegible] by the holders of stocks as a consequence of the coal situation. The more probable explanation of the price movement and the one generally accepted was that yesterday's purely professional operations had failed to [illegible] any following outside the circle of traders. The [illegible] traders who dipped into the market yesterday, which they gave more force to the movement than has been seen recently, were equally disinclined to follow up the movement in the entire absence of any outside participation in the market. A large majority of the first transactions this morning were at prices unchanged from last night. With the demonstration of this entire inertia of the market it was not long before the stock purchased yesterday began to come back for sale.

When the board room traders thought that they detected the source of this selling as identical with the buying of yesterday, the bullish sentiment on the floor flattened out. The general list merely followed in the wake of the Reading movement. That stock was heavy from the outset, but its decided break on the announcement of the rupture of negotiations at Indianapolis gave a decisive course to the whole list. The selling was not pressed urgently beyond the realizing on yesterday's purchases and the market showed symptoms of dropping back into its state of semistagnation. The announcement of the increase in the dividend rate on Anaconda induced some buying of Amalgamated Copper and caused quite a brisk rally in which the metal stocks shared largely.

Buying for London account was a feature of the early dealing and served as a drag on the fall in prices. This was a factor in the further decline in foreign exchange. Discussions continued of the likelihood of further gold engagements but no definite announcement was made. The call money market was tranquil today and rates for time loans were quotably lower in spite of the approach of the April first requirements. Shipments of money by the local banks to outside money centers in preparation for the April first settlements are said to be on a liberal scale. The closing tone was easy.

Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, $2,170,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

TILLMAN AND McCUMBER TALK IN THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Mr. Tillman and Mr. McCumber divided the time of the senate today, the North Dakota senator devoting himself to the railroad rate question exclusively and the South Carolina senator discussed various questions.

Mr. Tillman incidentally spoke of District Attorney Jerome's recent utterances and of Judge Humphrey's decision in the beef trust cases, declaring in the latter matter that the attorney general had merely reaped what he had sown in the case of former Secretary Paul Morton.

Mr. Foraker defended Judge Humphreys, and Mr. Tillman declared that he had not meant to attack the judge, but the law. Mr. McCumber picked innumerable flaws in the rate bill, predicting that if enacted into law it would fail entirely to meet the demands of the public. He said, however, he would vote for the bill if properly amended.
